Dear Mr. McMillen,

Thank you, your fine staff and your Project Manager, John Bush for conducting your independently verified Vulnerability Assessment of the wireless component of the computer network at the Washington State Senate Executive Office Buildings. I was impressed by your professionalism, your technical savvy and your attention to detail during your "wireless sweep".

We were relieved that you didn't discover any security holes in our wireless system. We did get a chuckle when you inadvertently intercepted Associated Press signals from their neighboring building while inside of our offices. We have been taking their static for years now we can document it!

Following your security sweep your group made a formal presentation to a televised Senate Committee hearing in the Capitol Building. You earned the unanimous praise of the members of the State Senate Technology and Communications Committee. I certainly learned a lot from your briefing. And, your testimony will aid in our efforts to secure more funding for increased computer network security.

We hope that we can call upon you in the future as we strive to secure our evolving dependence on wireless computer technology.

Thank you,

Sen. Dave Schmidt
Chairman, Technology and Communications Committee
